Arizona State University offers an alternative to re-taking the TOEFL exam for graduate degree applicants who have the academic abilities to be successful at ASU, but do not have the English language test scores required for admission to the university. Start your journey, improve your English, prepare for academic success at Arizona State University, ranked one of the most prestigious universities in the world.

International Graduate Preparation Program

Developed by ASU Global Launch, the 10-week International Graduate Preparation Program (IGPP) offers more than just English. You will gain confidence to communicate in social and business settings, conduct academic research, analyze case studies, improve academic writing, and more.

ASU Admission

Successful completion of the IGPP will fulfill your English language requirement for admission into your intended master’s degree program in the Ira A. Fulton Schools of Engineering.

Admission requirements

Earn “admission with deficiencies” for English proficiency from your degree program within the Fulton Schools of Engineering.

OR

Have a bachelor’s degree* AND one of the following:

- Minimum TOEFL of 80
- Minimum IELTS of 6.5. No band under 6.0
- Completion of the Advanced 2 level of the Global Launch intensive English program.
